

Who Has the Bomb?

- As long as there are _____ in the world there will be a possibility of a nuclear war.
- For the past _____ years a clock has been ticking toward a worldwide nuclear catastrophe.
- The _____ Clock in Chicago was the creation of the "Bulletin of Atomic Scientists". A magazine published by experts concerned with nuclear weapons. It symbolizes the possibility of _____.
- It was unveiled in _____ and set at _____ minutes to midnight. It has been moved _____ times. In _____ it was set back as far as _____ minutes. Today it is _____ minutes to midnight.
- With the Cold War over, there are _____ nukes between the _____ and _____.
- The Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty reduced both arsenals by _____ %.
- There was a question of what will be come of nuclear weapons and the _____ to build them?
- The threat is probably not from the _____ and _____, but from smaller, less powerful countries.
- Israel:
 - Most experts believe that Israel has them
 - Israel _____ to confirm or deny if they do.
 - It is believed that they have the largest arsenal outside the big _____.
 - They may have _____ to _____ weapons.
 - Israel is a _____ issue for the United States.
 - Israel privately says it needs them for protection, but others say it has caused an _____ in the Middle East.
- India and Pakistan:
 - Of all the countries who possess them, India and Pakistan are most likely to _____ them.
 - Both have _____ to deliver them.
 - What makes them dangerous is that they have fought _____ wars in the last _____ years.
 - In May of _____, both tested one.
 - Tensions are high over the state of _____.
 - Pakistan broke away from _____ in 1947. Pakistan is _____ and India is _____.